

Auto-dialing should not be allowed for telemarketing calls - they are extremely disruptive and uninvited - an invasion of privacy. There should be a centralized site where you can register that you do not want to be contacted by telemarkets - the DMA does not cover all situations. If you do business with a firm, they should be required to have you sign a statement before they use that relationship/information to contact you for marketing purposes.